

New librarians take on the upkeep of the school library

Statement made by one of the 6th form school librarians.

We were asked by Emma if we could help organise and tidy up in the library. We started off by checking if the book were in the wrong section, also not being put back in place or the wrong way around in the book shelf. After we had done tidying up the books, a student brought over a pile of books for another student to make sure if they have ownership stamps in them. If they are not then they have to be stamped. Then we put the books back where they came from off the shelf-section and put back up neat and tidy.
